

Bleacher Boards: Batch #24076

American Legion PRCA Rodeo—Augusta, Montana

Grayed from years of sun, dust, and weather these mixed softwood Rodeo

Bleachers are long and wide, ideal for siding and paneling. Many of the boards contain weathered hand-carved seat numbers and some have red paint that once marked the aisle way. The backsides of the boards have a range of weathering from brown to grey depending on their exposure to the elements; though we've done the courtesy of removing all chewing gum. Own a piece of Montana's western history with these storied wood planks from the American Legion PRCA Rodeo.

The Best One Day Rodeo in the Country

Since 1937, the town of Augusta, MT has held one of the largest one day rodeos hosting over 3,500 spectators the last full weekend of June. The tradition of competing cowboys and cowgirls will continue on, but with new seating. Just your luck, now you can bring the cheers, gasps, and boot stomping from the past into your latest project.
